POLICY OF NON-DISCRIMINATION

Union Theological Seminary in the City of New York admits students regardless of age, color, national or ethnic origin, familial composition, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, race, racial, ethnic, cultural and gender identity and expression, religious affiliation, faith tradition, socio-economic status or disability, to all the rights, privileges, and programs generally accorded or made available to students at the Seminary. It does not discriminate on the basis of any of these in the administration of its educational policies, admissions policies, scholarships and loan programs, or other programs administered by the Seminary.

FINANCIAL SUPPORT FOR THE SEMINARY

Tuition and fees paid by Union’s students cover only about one-fifth of the costs of their education here. Most of the remaining costs are met in three ways: first, by gifts from alumni/ae and friends of the Seminary; second, by contributions from churches, corporations, and foundations; and third, by income from the Seminary’s endowment, comprising gifts and bequests from persons sharing Union’s purposes and aspirations. For information on making a gift to Union or on providing for the Seminary in your will, please contact the Office of Institutional Advancement, at 212-280-1590 or online at https://myunion.utsnyc.edu/donate.

SUPPLEMENTAL CO-CURRICULAR COURSES .... 48

GENERAL COURSES ................................. 56
This catalog of courses at Union Theological Seminary is the annual supplement to the information available on the website regarding degree programs, policies, and graduation requirements.

The Seminary reserves the right to cancel or modify policies and courses of instruction, and to change academic calendar dates, course instructors, and other details of the curriculum and academic programs.

Changes in the class schedule will be published at the beginning of each semester. Additional information about classes and other academic matters will be posted on the website and bulletin board throughout the term.

Students are responsible for acquainting themselves fully with the Seminary’s rules and policies that are available on the website and elsewhere, such as in registration materials and the Student Handbook.

No student may register for more than 15 credits in a semester or 30 credits in an academic year (exclusive of the January intersession) except by written permission of the academic dean.

Students are expected to participate fully and attend faithfully all classes for which they are enrolled, including tutorial sessions and other special course meetings. Absences, except in cases of emergency, should be reported in advance to the professor, since absence from class may be grounds for failing a course.

Course numbers are important for the registrar’s record keeping, so they must be used precisely by students at registration.

January Intersession courses are identified by the suffix “J.” The suffix “Q” means that course credits are earned during the summer. Exegesis courses in the Biblical Field have the letter “E” at the end of the course number.

A student who wishes to drop a course or otherwise make changes in registration must do so with the Registrar’s Office, in accordance with the deadlines stated in the academic calendar. Stopping one’s class attendance or excusing oneself to the instructor does not constitute dropping a course.

Tuition fees will not be adjusted for courses dropped after the end of the Add/Drop period, except in the case of complete withdrawal from the Seminary.

The deadline for withdrawing from courses without academic penalty, or for changing a registration to audit, is October 31st in the fall semester and March 31st in the spring semester. After these deadlines, students are responsible for the requirements of all courses in which they are enrolled according to the records held by the registrar.

The information in this catalog of courses can be viewed online in the Academics section of the Seminary’s web site at www.utsnyc.edu/academics/registrar/course-information.

Please note that in the case of discrepancies between the online and printed Academic Office information, the online version always takes precedence.
ACADEMIC CALENDAR 2016-2017

The Seminary’s Academic Calendar is available online at www.utsny.edu/registrar. Academic calendars at affiliated institutions (Columbia University, Teachers College, etc.) are not always identical to Union’s calendar. Union students who will be enrolled at another school are advised to obtain information about the class schedules and academic holidays at the host institution.

The expenses of individual students may vary considerably. This chart gives a reasonable picture of a student’s costs, and is used as the standard for financial aid purposes at Union.

CANDIDATES FOR THE M.DIV., M.A., & S.T.M.
Annual tuition for full-time program $22,980
Payable each semester in Tuition Units
Full Unit (for 7 to 15 credits) $11,490
Half Unit (for up to 6 credits) $5,745

CANDIDATES FOR THE SEMINARY PH.D.
Annual tuition for full-time program $35,135
Payable each semester during residency
Full Unit (for 7 to 15 credits) $17,568
Doctoral students must register full-time during residency.

ALL OTHER STUDENTS
for each curriculum credit $1,280

EXTENDED RESIDENCE FEE
$3,000
Those degree candidates who have completed the residency or tuition-unit requirements for their program, without having completed the academic requirements, must register for Extended Residence (UT 400) in the semester immediately following the term in which the residency or tuition obligation is satisfied. The candidate must register for courses or other necessary work and, insofar as possible, complete all degree requirements that remain outstanding. With the dean’s approval, the student’s schedule may include courses beyond those required for the degree. Courses at other institutions are not covered by the Extended Residence Fee.

MATRICULATION AND FACILITIES FEE
$2,000
Seminary degree candidates who have been enrolled for one semester of Extended Residence (See UT 400) but who have still not completed the degree requirements must register for Matriculation and Facilities (UT 410). This fee allows the candidate to pursue any academic work that is necessary to fulfill outstanding degree requirements and, for the doctoral student, will be waived only in the semester in which the dissertation is defended.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES FEE
Required each semester $100

HEALTH PROGRAM FEE (annual)
$1,020
Required of all students residing in Seminary housing and of all students paying full tuition units, except for candidates for University degrees who pay this fee directly to the University. See the Columbia Guide to Health Service for services covered by the Health Program Fee.

STUDENT MEDICAL INSURANCE
Mandatory for all full-time and residential students. Waivable only if student already has comparable health insurance coverage. See the Columbia Guide to Health Service for an explanation of the difference between Gold and Platinum coverage. Student insurance fees are set by Columbia University.

- Gold (annual) $3,576
- Platinum (annual) $5,197

AUDITING FEE
For those without student status. For further details on auditing courses, see www.utsnyc.edu/courses.

- General Auditor Fee – per course $600
- (attends lectures and tutorials; may participate in class discussions)
- Alumni/ae Auditor Fee – for first class $0
  - for each class thereafter $150

BX 101
Introduction to the Bible
4 credits
Wednesday
9:00 a.m. - 11:50 a.m.
Brigitte Kahl

This course offers a condensed introduction to the core texts, narrative trajectories, historical backgrounds and theological concerns of the Bible. Some major questions regarding the hermeneutics of scriptural interpretation in the context of race, gender, class, ecology and in light of an increasingly inter/non-religious environment will be discussed. As the canonical book both of Christianity and Western civilization, the Bible has been a key player in countless cultural, political and socio-religious clashes past and present. How can we read it with new eyes as the book of humanity and interdependent survival on a fragile planet?

Notes: Additional tutorials Wednesday 1:10-2:00 and 5:10-6:00. Consult M.A. degree program planner and M.Div. degree program planner (Option B).

BX 201.01 & 02
The Arts of Reading: Exegetical Practicum
3 credits
Section 01:
Monday
9:00 a.m. - 11:50 a.m.
Aliou C. Niang
Section 02:
Thursday
2:10 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.
Brigitte Kahl

The course teaches essential skills of exegeting biblical texts in a practice-oriented way. Both testaments and different genres will be covered. While current theories of interpretation and the broad range of exegetical methods will be briefly outlined, the focus will be on the practical work of reading, analyzing, and understanding texts both on the literary level as well as in their socio-historic contexts.

Prerequisites: OT 101 and NT 101.

Notes: Normally students must be enrolled concurrently in CW 101. Enrollment limited to 15 students per section. Consult M.Div. degree program planner (option A).

BX 401
Guided Reading
1 to 3 credits as approved by the professor

Independent study for master's-level students under the guidance of a member of the faculty. Master’s-level guided readings may not be taken for R credit.

Note: Permission of the instructor required.

BX 502
Guided Research
1 to 6 credits as approved by the professor

Doctoral candidates pursue independent study under the guidance of the professors with whom they are doing their major work.

Note: Permission of the instructor required.
January 2017

| BX 105J  | Introduction to Biblical Languages | This course provides a basic introduction to biblical Hebrew and Greek to help future pastors and church leaders explore biblical texts in their original languages. While this course is not a replacement for biblical language study, it will familiarize students with a range of ancient language resources to aid in biblical study and interpretation of biblical texts. Students will learn both the Hebrew and Greek alphabets and gain experience with lexical tools, including interlinear bibles, dictionaries, concordances, and computer resources.

Note: This course is intended for students with no previous Greek/Hebrew instruction and will be graded Pass/Fail. It is especially recommended for those taking OT/NT 101 or BX 201. |

OLD TESTAMENT

Fall 2016

| OT 101  | Introduction to the Old Testament
4 credits | The goals of this course are to introduce students to the Hebrew Bible (or Old Testament) within its historical and cultural environment, and to explore major issues in biblical interpretation. Students will learn about the ancient Near Eastern world of which the Israelites were a part, examine the diverse social and religious concerns of the biblical writers, and consider multiple contemporary approaches to biblical texts.

Notes: OT 111 or the equivalent, or the permission of the instructor. Consult M.Div. degree program planner.
OT 236
Monster Heaven
3 credits
Wednesdays
9:00 a.m. - 11:50 a.m.
Esther Hamori

The biblical universe is a world of monsters, from the ghouls of Sheol to the composite monsters that guard the divine throne. The creatures of the cosmos serve a range of functions in biblical literature, as they do throughout ancient Near Eastern writing. When monsters appear in the increasingly monotheistic traditions of the Bible, however, there are provocative implications. In this course we will explore the theological and social functions of the creatures of the cosmos in light of work on the development of monotheism and the biblical divine assembly, ancient Near Eastern mythology and apotropaic ritual, and modern monster theory.

Prerequisites: OT 101 or BX 101

OT 265
Literature of Lamentation
3 credits
Thursdays
2:10 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.
Alan Cooper

A study of the lament genres, both communal and individual, in Israel and the ancient near east. Close reading of the book of Lamentations, as well as related psalms and prophetic writings.

OT 313B
Intermediate Hebrew II
1 credit
Online
Esther Hamori

This intermediate biblical Hebrew course meets via Skype every other week for both semesters. We will read prose texts in the fall, and poetry in the spring. Work will include issues of grammar, syntax, vocabulary, reading aloud, and use of critical tools.

A study of origins, organization, outreach, religious life and key ideas, issues, events, and figures in the development of United Methodism. Aims at enabling the student 1) to understand and evaluate United Methodism in the light of its antecedent organizations and the broader context of those traditions historically related to the Methodist movement; and 2) to engage in responsible participation in the life and leadership of the United Methodist Church, to communicate effectively the tradition, and to participate perceptively in the ecumenical dialogue.

Two sections, both taught by Dr. Morris Davis:
1. CHST 560 DF, weekly at the Madison, NJ campus on Tuesdays from 9-11:45AM.
2. CHST 560 X, 100% online with synchronous sessions TBA.

This 12 week course examines the historical development and structural polity of the United Church of Christ. This course also spends time focusing on the emerging UCC and gives students a chance to explore social justice, world missions, ecumenism, and new and renewing congregational ministry within the UCC.

Join instructor Rev. Dr. Timothy Downs (UCC Scholar and former UCC Pastor and UCC Conference Minister) for a course that will transform your denominational identity.

January 2017

Notes: In the 2016-2017 academic year, Union is entering into an agreement with Drew Theological School. Drew will provide courses requisite for ordination in the UM tradition. Union will cover the costs. Courses may be taken in person or online.
This course is designed to enable those in the Methodist tradition to evaluate, plan, and lead worship with theological integrity and creativity. The tradition of Methodist worship is one of form and freedom, involving texts and free prayer, ordained elders and lay preaching, and liturgical arts. The goal is to prepare worship leaders of congregations to do their work with theological insight, ecumenical imagination, and an evangelist’s “warm heart.”

Usually taught by Taylor Burton Edwards, Director of Worship Resources, Discipleship Ministries, UMC. Intensive format, meets 3-5 days per week at the Madison, NJ campus for 2 weeks (affordable, modest overnight housing available).

The Practice of Presbyterian Ministry: Polity & Its Pastoral Applications
2 credits
Thursdays
6:10 p.m. - 8:00 p.m.
Gregory A. Horn

This course will examine essential elements of Presbyterian polity (the Book of Order) in light of the confessional and theological foundations (the Book of Confessions) of the Presbyterian Church (USA). Emphasis will be given to exploring the ways polity can support, guide, and enhance the practice of ministry in the parish setting. All students are welcome. Middlers interested in Presbyterian ministry are strongly encouraged to enroll, since a goal of this course is to prepare Presbyterian students for the polity examination of the Presbyterian Church (USA).

Evangelism in the United Methodist Tradition
2 credits
Drew Theological School

This course will focus on an articulation of a definition of evangelism, a biblical basis for evangelism and a theology of evangelism. It will provide students with a familiarity and practical tools for helping both individuals and congregations engage in evangelism. This course fulfills the Division of Ordained Ministry requirement in evangelism for United Methodist students.

Taught 100% Online with synchronous chat Mondays, 8-10AM, taught by Dr. Leonard Sweet

3 credits
Wednesdays
9:30 a.m. - 12:20 p.m.
Carolyn Halpin-Healy
Posey Krakowsky
This course involves the viewing and discussion of sacred art in small groups by people of diverse faiths. Sharing our sacred art can open us up to greater understanding of our own religious tradition and to those of others. When we observe a work of art, we respond at a pre-verbal level; such responses can lead us to insights about our religions and spiritual practices that might not otherwise be apparent. We will encounter works of art from the Hindu, Buddhist, Jewish, Christian, Islamic, African and Indigenous American traditions. We will meet at the Metropolitan Museum of Art for the majority of the class sessions. At each session, we will view works of art together. We will also meet at Union for discussion sessions to deepen the dialogue.

IE 240
Socially Engaged Buddhism
3 credits
Tuesdays
6:10 p.m. - 9:00 p.m.
Greg Snyder
The first part of this course will explore the Buddhist tenets that provide doctrinal ground both for and against socially engaged Buddhism. The second will involve the study of progressive and conservative, engaged Buddhist movements around the world and in the US. Finally, we will examine the critiques these expressions offer to Buddhism’s institutions and practices. Guest speakers will further enhance understanding of these positions.

IE 312
Mysticism and Revolutionary Social Change: Spirituality for Authentic Transformation
3 credits
Thursdays
2:10 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.
Chung Hyun Kyung
In this course, we will explore the relationship between inner awakening and revolutionary social change. We will study eleven mystics from different religious traditions whose life and work exemplify the integration of interior and exterior transformation: Hildegard of Bingen, Rumi, Thomas Merton, Abraham Heschel, Dorothy Day, Helder Camara, Thich Naht Hanh, Alice Walker, Dorothee Soelle, Suen-Kim Chi Ha and Thomas Berry.

IE 316
Women, Islam, and Interpretation
3 credits
Tuesdays
9:00 a.m. - 11:50 a.m.
Jerusha Lamptey
This course will critically explore diverse interpretations of women and gender within the Islamic tradition. After a brief overview of the manner in which authority is constructed and challenged within Islam, the course will focus on depictions of women and gender in the primary Islamic sources (The Qur’an and Sunna); classical exegetical, legal and mystical (and principally male) interpretations of the status and roles of women; and contemporary Islamic (primarily female) reinterpretations and constructions of women and gender. In considering both classical and contemporary interpretations, equal emphasis will be placed on the content and the underlying hermeneutical methodologies. The course will conclude with a constructive exploration of the potential extensions of contemporary reinterpretations to broader topics related to gender and human diversity.
Note: Students with limited knowledge of Islam may be required to complete supplementary readings.

The Tension of "Sumak Kawsay": Spiritual Dimensions of Development, Peace-Building, and Human Rights in Ecuador
3 credits
January 5-14, 2017
Chung Hyun Kyung
Monica Maher
An exploration of "Sumak Kawsay" (living Well) in Ecuadoran contemporary society. We will explore in this 10-day immersion travel seminar spiritual dimensions of development, peace-building, and human rights struggle in Ecuador. One central question will be how this ethos of Sumak Kawsay manifests itself in the lived reality of marginalized people in Ecuador and how it is directly or indirectly connected with "Living Well" of people of USA. We will explore this question by encountering scholars, activists, spiritual leaders, indigenous people, LGBTQ individuals, Afro-descendants, refugees and urban and rural poor women.

This course examines Islamic perspectives on religious diversity, other religious and non-religious traditions, and interreligious engagement. It involves exploration of primary Islamic sources (including the Qur’an and Hadith), and traditional and contemporary interpretations drawn from exegetical, legal, polemical, and theological discourses. Throughout all, emphasis is placed on developing a nuanced understanding of interpretative conclusions, of interpretative methodologies, and of the relevance of the Islam-specific conversation to broader discussions of religious diversity and interreligious engagement.

IE 327
Increasingly persons are taking up practices from more than one religious tradition. Some go so far as to claim “double belonging.” This course explores multiple religious participation/double belonging and its implications for theology. After exploring a wide range of such phenomena, we will ask the following questions: Can one belong to two (or more) different religious traditions and practices at the same time? Is religious “double-dipping” possible? Is it worthwhile? Is it necessary?

IE 330
An exploration of the background and contemporary methods for use of the Bible in theology within a theology open more broadly to insights from religious traditions outside traditional Christian boundaries. One central question will be: How can Christians consider the claims of the Bible alongside and in relation to the insights of another tradition’s sacred text?

IE 336
This course examines the origins, development, content, and critical issues of various forms of eco-feminism and earth spiritualities around the world. Engagement with important oral, written, and visual texts. Visitation and discussion with local and international activists will be arranged. We will also rediscover and practice the rituals of earth spirituality.

This course explores how to provide care to people from another tradition and religion than one’s own. Students will become familiar with religiously diverse concepts of spiritual care and with the current state of the field internationally.
Effective communication is essential in teaching, preaching, community organizing, and counseling—that is, in any setting where one wants to cause an intended outcome. This small-group setting provides a highly interactive forum in which students receive individualized coaching and support and explore the range and scope of each individual’s authentic voice. Through weekly practice, students gain confidence, learn what it means to show up, and improve their ability to communicate effectively, whether speaking impromptu or reading from a prepared text. Students complete this course with an improved ability to engage consciously, meaningfully, and deliberately in the practice of live communication.

Note: Enrollment limited to six students.

When students leave Union and enter the larger community (church, school, hospital, political organization, etc.), their ability to express their leadership and make a difference is dependent on their fluency and facility as live communicators. This course is an immersive experience in which students will improve and refine their communication behaviors. They will be given the opportunity to learn by doing and will gain awareness by being coached in response to specific, individual needs. The aim of this course is to provide each student with enhanced awareness and aptitude across multiple formats (public speaking, teaching, facilitation, and various virtual modalities) along with the improved ability to engage consciously, meaningfully, and deliberately in the practice of live communication no matter what the circumstances or setting.

Notes: Enrollment limited to 18 students. CA 102 will fulfill the CA 101 requirement during the 2016-2017 academic year. Consult M.Div. degree program planner.

Introduction to Preaching and Worship
3 credits
Tuesdays
2:10 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.
Cláudio Carvalhaes
Lisa Thompson

This course is designed to provide a foundation in preaching and worship, including moving from scripture text to spoken sermon, gaining skills in planning and leading worship, the role of imagination, and an understanding of the congregation as partners in preaching and worship.

Notes: This course is open only to M.Div. and M.Div./MSSW students. Consult M.Div. degree program planner (option A).

Liturgy and Postcolonialism
3 credits
Thursdays
9:00 a.m. - 11:50 a.m.
Cláudio Carvalhaes

The liturgical field has been deeply reshaped in the last 50 years: Vatican II, the liturgical renewal movement, liberation theologies, cultural, race, sexual, socio-economic studies, performance/ritual studies have deeply shifted the ways in which worship is designed and practiced. Postcolonialism is one of these new critical tools that the field of liturgy needs to engage. This course will offer an introductory overview of the possible relationship between worship and postcolonial theories.

Colloquium in Theology and the Arts
1 credit
Friday, September 9th
1:00 p.m. – 2:00 p.m.
Troy Messenger

An exploration of the connection between theology and the arts through a critical engagement with museum exhibits and performances. The class will make three excursions to artistic events at times to be announced. The class will meet at the beginning of the semester to outline the course and arrange for attendance at the events. The class will also meet at the conclusion of the semester for a final conversation about the experiences of the semester. Students with a background in a visual or performing art are particularly encouraged to enroll.

Note: The initial gathering of CW 280 will be from 1-2:00pm in the Bonhoeffer Room on Friday, September 9. The events of the course will be individually scheduled with students following the initial meeting. The final session of the course will be Friday, December 16 from noon-2:00pm in the Bonhoeffer Room.

CW 319
Foolishness of Preaching: Preaching in the Black Idiom
3 credits
Tuesdays
2:10 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.
Alvan Johnson

This course will address several classical, traditional definitions of preaching, as well as the theological interaction between preacher and text. Students will be exposed to the relationships among exegetical analysis, homiletic mastery, style and delivery. Students will also examine the varieties of structures of sermons, as well as compare the creativity of historical Black preaching to their own developmental mastery.

This course offers an experiential and philosophical investigation of the processes of sensory-motor learning, with an interest in increasing awareness of one's organization and self-use. The course asks: What role(s) does movement play in how we think, learn, and communicate? How might we consider bodily organization as evidence of the self-in-process? With the fundamental human traits of interdependency, awareness, and responsibility as guiding themes, we will move, touch, improvise, witness, create, and discuss in a variety of context.

What are the markers of hospitality and hostility around the sacraments? What does the rite of baptism have to do with issues of health, ecology, inclusion, justice and the poor? How is the celebration of the Eucharist associated with notions of international power, race, land/food, world migration and non-documented immigrants in US? This course seeks to connect the philosophical, social, political, racial, class, and sexual references that mark the Christian faith but usually go unnoticed in the theological thinking with the liturgical practices of the sacraments. In order to do that, this course intends to offer tools for the students to make connections between the sacraments and historical processes of globalization, under the rubrics of hospitality.

In this course we will read basic texts of various liberation theologies across the globe and find ways that they inform worship and liturgy from the perspective of marginalized people. Along with these texts, the class will create liturgies/worship services throughout the semester and at the end be able to articulate liturgical liberation theologies.

This course examines the use of current events at local, national, and global levels within the creative process and practice of preaching. Subject exploration will include, but is not limited to, matters of gender and sexuality, race, violence, poverty, and religion. The goal of the course is to help individuals become astute in the pastoral and prophetic practices of preaching, as relates to engaging the world in which we live.

This course examines the interplay of gender and power as they relate to cultural narratives, the pulpit space and rhetoric, the person of the preacher, and Scripture. Participants will engage texts, films, and colleagues in order to inform a critical discussion about the tasks, content, and performance of preaching.

Independent study for master's-level students under the guidance of a member of the faculty. Master’s-level guided readings may not be taken for R credit.

Doctoral candidates pursue independent study under the guidance of the professors with whom they are doing their major work.

Students will receive practical and theoretical grounding in the fundamentals of responding to common pastoral situations (illness, dying and bereavement, care for couples and families), crisis intervention, pastoral theological reflection, and self-care, with attention to the impact of social context including race, class, gender and sexuality. Students will develop a theological framework for understanding their own pastoral identity, the meaning of care of persons, the pastoral role of Christian community, and for conceptualizing health and wholeness with particular reference to their own theological and cultural traditions.

Note: Students in PS 101 must enroll concurrently in PS 110.

PS 110
Students will learn and practice pastoral listening skills through directed practicum work in small groups. The emphasis will be on nondirective listening, but will also include spiritual companioning and crisis intervention and suicide prevention.

Note: This course is normally a prerequisite to receive academic credits for clinical pastoral education (PS 363-364, PS 366Q, FE 363-364 and FE 366Q).

PS 204
This course examines how the human psyche and soul develop over the course of the life cycle. Making use of a range of materials from the fields of developmental psychology and faith development, students will explore how the journey of psyche and soul from birth to death is shaped by the inner life, family, gender, and race, as well as the influences of both sacred and secular communities.

PS 318
In this course, students will watch a full-length fictional feature film together weekly, and through accompanying readings and discussion, will reflect on the spiritual-pastoral care implications to be gleaned from the individual, family, and societal dynamics depicted. Consider each film as a spiritual-pastoral care “case.” Emphasis will be given to spiritual/pastoral assessment, “countertransference” and the use of one’s own feelings and reactions as a resource in spiritual-pastoral care and counseling, theological reflection, and appropriate forms of spiritual-pastoral response. Films chosen will represent a variety of psycho-spiritual issues and cultural contexts. The final project will consist of a paper analyzing a film of the student’s choice using the tools practiced in the course.

Prerequisite: PS 101 or 1 Unit of CPE

PS 364
Clinical Pastoral Education (CPE) is graduate-level theological and professional education for ministry that takes place in a clinical setting. CPE students learn the art and skills of pastoral and spiritual care by providing pastoral and spiritual care to patients, families and staff, and then reflect on their ministry experiences with a certified CPE Supervisor and a small group of peers.

Student may receive academic credits for up to one unit of CPE. Check with the Office of Integrative and Field-Based Education Office to request credit.

The Senior Director of Integrative and Field-Based Education will consider an application from a student to substitute a unit of CPE taken on an extended basis through the academic year in order to fulfill the Field Education requirement. Both semesters (FE 363-364) must be taken sequentially in order to receive credit. Enrollment only with permission of the Senior Director of Integrative and Field-Based Education.

Prerequisite: PS 363. Both semesters and January Intercession must be completed in order to receive credit.

3 credits
Wednesdays
9:00 a.m. - 11:50 a.m.
Pamela Cooper-White

This course will put readings from two important schools of thought into dialogue: 1) psychoanalytic theorists who have written and/or been influenced strongly by religion, the divine, or the transcendent (such as Jung, Bion, Cixous; and 2) theologians who have written and/or been influenced strongly by psychoanalytic theory (e.g., Tillich, Keller). A comparison of methods and materials, and application to issues of human need will be considered weekly.

Prerequisite: ST 103 or equivalent and PS 204, PS 209, PS 405 or equivalent psychoanalytic theory courses. Enrollment limit of 10 students.

PS 502

Mondays
6:10 p.m. - 9:00 p.m.
Violet L. D. Lee
This course offers insight into leadership theory and practice. It will review the characteristics and qualities of effective leadership for congregational life. It is designed to help strengthen the students’ understanding of their personal leadership abilities for the contemporary church by examining the impact of one’s own religious life and the influence of their unique style of leadership. A review of the social climate of religious institutions and forces that attribute to the success of church leadership are to be examined. This course, an interactive seminar, explores the church as a distinctive environment for leadership. Participants will review the significant ways church cultures cross traditional boundaries found in other sectors, both public and private. The particular contextual focus will highlight conflict management and understanding the roles of power and authority in congregational life. Students will complete written assignments designed to advance their understanding of the church as a cultural and spiritual institution in community, in the lives of individuals and families. |

African Religions in the Americas
(Idential to IE 335)
3 credits
Tuesdays
6:10 p.m. - 9:00 p.m.
Sam Cruz

A critical analysis of the socio-historical settings of the development of each of the most widely practiced African based spiritual traditions/movements in the Americas. We will engage the African-based practices of Haitian Vodou, Santeria/Palo Monte, Rastafarianism, Espiritismo, Obeah, Candomble, Umbanda, as well as African religious influences in Protestant Christianity. We will explore ways in which these religious movements have been impacted by North and South American cultural and political conditions, and how they have impacted the cultural and political realities in turn. The transformations made by these religious practices in the diasporic communities in the United States will be an underlying focus of this course.

Note: This course will take place inside Bedford Hills Correctional Facility, the only maximum security prison for women in New York State. Due to travel time and security clearance, students will have to leave Union by 4pm on Tuesdays. Due to the extensive vetting process, students have already signed up for this course. Registration closed.

CS 209J
The Liberative Spirituality of Archbishop Oscar Romero: His Challenge for Today
2 credits
January 3-17, 2017
Whit Hutchison

A 10-day travel seminar to El Salvador, January 3-17, 2017, guided by Whit Hutchison in which participants will study the socio-political context and visit the historical and religious sites of Archbishop Oscar Romero’s times. We will also meet both with persons who knew and worked with him as well as with communities who are carrying on his vision and hopes. The purpose of the course will be to study Romero’s “method of liberation”—how Romero’s political praxis was nurtured and guided by his spiritual praxis and how he, together with the struggling poor of El Salvador, confronted the structures of violent repression and injustice and sought, through non-violent confrontation, to transform them.

<td>The course explores some major theoretical concepts of social justice and relates them to religious history and current social movements. In order to understand the two main paradigms of &quot;Western Civilization&quot;, we compare Plato and Aristotle’s concept of justice with critical impulses from the Hebrew Bible and the New Testament. With the example of some classic conflicts we explore how the relationship to poverty and wealth became an ideological battlefield throughout religious history. In order to acquaint ourselves with the predominant justice discourses in modern capitalism, we scrutinize the concepts of classic liberalism (Locke), welfare liberalism (Rawls), neo-liberalism (Hayek) and confront them with some major theoretical and religious criticisms. We will deal with the debates about economic justice, gender justice, racial justice and eco-justice. We will investigate ways of building a broad movement that would end poverty and bring about social justice.</td>

<td>Over the past 30 years both the theologies of liberation—be they Latin American, Feminist, Black, Latina or Asian—and the “Pentecostalization” of Christian denominations and independent churches have had an incredible influence upon the Christian religious landscape in the United States. In contrast, liberation theologies are often described as having lost ground and faded away, a perception that this course will examine critically. Pentecostal and Neo-Pentecostal churches seem to be the fastest growing religious movements across the globe. The course will examine the perceptions that Pentecostalism is an alternative to liberation theologies and/or its diametrical opposite. It will examine how both liberation theologies and Pentecostalism have been transformed, mutated, and revitalized by conservative and progressive churches. We will also examine the commonalities, differences, conflicts, and potentialities for social and political action found in liberation theologies and Pentecostalism. Jan Rehmann | The course explores some major theoretical concepts of social justice and relates them to religious history and current social movements. In order to understand the two main paradigms of "Western Civilization" we compare Plato and Aristotle’s concept of justice with critical impulses from the Hebrew Bible and the New Testament. With the example of some classic conflicts, we explore how the relationship to poverty and wealth became an ideological battlefield throughout religious history. In order to acquaint ourselves with the predominant justice discourses in modern capitalism, we scrutinize the concepts of classic liberalism (Locke), welfare liberalism (Rawls), neo-liberalism (Hayek) and confront them with some major theoretical and religious criticisms. We will deal with the debates about economic justice, gender justice, racial justice and eco-justice. We will investigate ways of building a broad movement that would end poverty and bring about social justice? |

<td>10:00 a.m. - 11:50 a.m.</td>
<td>James Cone</td>
<td>The aim of this course is to provide a basic understanding of the nature of systematic theology as this discipline relates to contemporary social and political issues. Special attention is given to the emergence of liberal, orthodox, and neo-orthodox theologies in Europe and North America and to their impact on the rise of liberation theologies in Asia, Africa, Latin America, within U.S. minorities, and also among women in all groups. It is hoped that students will not only clarify their own personal stance but will, in addition, come to understand perspectives radically different from their own. Readings will be taken from twentieth-century sources. Notes: Attendance at an 80-minute weekly tutorial, times to be arranged, is also required. Consult M.Div. degree program planner.</td>

<td>The course is a study of theological anthropology from a womanist perspective and explores both the implicit and explicit development of anthropologies in recent womanist scholarship. The course will begin by introducing students to the discipline of womanist theology and will then turn its attention to a theological treatment of the human person, establishing questions of race, gender and sexuality as theological questions. The course will study critical race theory and ways in which power, discourse, representation and production of subjectivities emerge. Womanist theological anthropology reflects on how moral agency is negotiated and identity constructed when autonomy and self-definition cannot be taken for granted; how human agency, relationships and actions are read theologically; and what it means to say that identity and the imago Dei are understood as theological and ethical tasks.</td>

Political Theology
3 credits
Tuesdays
9:00 a.m. - 11:50 a.m.
Andrea White

Is theology always political? Is the political always theological? This course will examine the view that theology has something to say about the way in which ideas and practices are organized for the structures of social power. It will study thinkers who view theology as a resource for the political insofar as theology engages in the enterprise of ideology critique and discourse analysis. It will also examine the contention that theology is not so much resource as culprit, since genealogies of race demonstrate that theology is the origin of empire building, colonialism and imperialism. Readings will include works by theologians who analyze the use of the body for the sake of the state and argue that while racial designations are politically activated (Copeland, Brown Douglas), it is actually theology that formed the colonialist moment (Jennings, Carter). Themes throughout the course will address the relationship between God and power, the question of how religious ideas and practices shape politics, secularism as a religious category, the fragility of politics, the notion that political power needs to be “redeemed” (Ricoeur), and the antagonistic relation between truth and politics (Arendt). Other thinkers will argue that it is theology, always already political, that needs to be redeemed.

Foundations in Christian Theology II
3 credits
Tuesdays
6:10 p.m. - 9:00 p.m.
Kathryn Reinhard

This course in systematic theology presents, interprets and evaluates doctrinal positions in contemporary Christian theology, also referred to as constructive theology. The course aims to develop both familiarity and facility with theological discourse represented by classic, postmodern and contextual theologians. The course will explore the nature and systematic relation of various doctrines central to Christian faith and life through a close reading of texts. The texts studied will also address theological language.

ST 307
Christianity and Evolution in Dialogue
3 credits
Thursdays
2:10 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.
Roger Haight

The goal of this course is to enter the conversation between theology and evolutionary science, introduce some of the language and issues it deals with, and allow these probes to modify an appreciation of these ways of knowing in terms of method and content. This is done concretely in a constructive effort to pinpoint specific places where this dialogue influences how one understands core Christian beliefs.

(Identical to IE 327)
3 credits
Tuesdays
6:10 p.m. - 9:00 p.m.
John Thatamanil

Increasingly persons are taking up practices from more than one religious tradition. Some go so far as to claim “double belonging.” This course explores multiple religious participation/double belonging and its implications for theology. After exploring a wide range of such phenomena, we will ask the following questions: Can one belong to two (or more) different religious traditions and practices at the same time? Is religious “double-dipping” possible? Is it worthwhile? Is it necessary?

SUPPLEMENTAL CO-CURRICULAR COURSES

Supplemental co-curricular study opportunities are offered to students for their personal enrichment or to acquire some particular skill relevant to an aspect of their professional development and preparation that are not provided for in the regular curriculum of the Seminary. A student may take as many supplemental courses as time and inclination allow, but strict limits govern how they can be applied toward a degree.

Note: A maximum of three points in SU courses may be counted as electives for the M.Div. and M.A. degrees only. However, additional supplemental courses may be taken, with full participation, by all degree candidates but without receiving academic credit. All SU courses will be graded Pass/Fail.

<td>This course explores the city as a place of spiritual development and struggle, sometimes as a barrier to interior life, other times as a catalyst for social change. The city is a large factor in our stories of formation and liberation, pilgrimage and breakthrough, even when we absent ourselves through exile or retreat. We will draw from the urban setting of biblical texts, as well as the city themes of scripture, reading them in conversation with the pastoral (rural) themes. We will observe our city surroundings through journaling to discover where we are and how we got here. Practitioners of city faith give us models for our own practice. The bench is deep when we consider the thinkers, preachers, artists, poets, protestors, activists, innovators and the cities that engendered or provoked their output.</td>

coordinate of such “miraculous normativity,” the idealized concept “Spirit.” Working with critical disability theory in its contiguity with postcolonial theory, we engage other possible readings of “disability” in the miracle tradition and wonder whether Jesus—given the lineage of the crip leaders of Israel, like limping Jacob and stuttering Moses—might be more crip than the “vital, pure and busy” healer (von Harnack) he has been made out to be in liberal theology. Critical crip theory can generate more resilience in Christian, leaving it less compliant to modern subjective normalcy and its “Society of the Spectacle,” its limited notions of health and its unjust economic structures, as well as helping it to think into the Advent of the Anthropocene.

Zora Neal Hurston once stated “black women are the mules of the earth.” One assertion is that black trans women are historically and theologically situated somewhere between Howard Thurman’s notion of “the disinherited” and Franz Fanon’s notion of “the wretched of the earth.” One response to this marginalization has been the formation of self-sustaining social networks and cultural groups, such as the House | Ballroom scene, a Black/Latino LGBT artistic collective and intentional kinship system that has grown over the past 50 years with its roots stemming from the Harlem Renaissance. This course will explore the history of the House | Ballroom community as a Black Trans-Womanist theological discourse, a freedom movement, and its spiritual formation responses to race, class, sexuality, and gender oppression. It will further examine its history in mobilizing as a resistance to these oppressions and place it in conversation with other historical struggles.

Faith Seeking Understanding: Intentional Community from Medieval Model to Contemporary Example
1 credit
Tuesdays
1:10 p.m. - 2:00 p.m.
Jane Huber

Current day interest and life in intentional community has a rich and diverse history. Within communities from the past to the present, the cultivation of spiritual practices is a central focus of intentional living. For this course, the medieval model provided by women and men living in Christian community furnishes a starting point for the historical study of intentional communities. The course will also include introduction to the different forms and orders of medieval monasticism and spiritual practice in community. Through review of historical documents, films and museum site visits, students will be introduced to historical examples of life in intentional community. Beyond Christian communities, the spiritual practices that are associated with intentional communities vary from religious tradition to tradition. Through site visits to a Jewish eruv, Christian cloister and Islamic courtyard students will explore the different boundaries and peripheries of sacred space for each tradition. To conclude the course, students will review current research and present their own proposals for intentional communities in contemporary contexts.

Section 01: Laudato Si’: Conversion toward the Earth and the Poor.
Instructor: Erin Lothes
Friday September 23, 1:00 – 6:00 pm
Saturday September 24, 9:00 am – 5:00 pm

Pope Francis's 2015 encyclical Laudato Si' is a historic document conveying the urgent need to protect "our common home" along with concern for the poor, critiques of global inequality, and an invitation to a profound spiritual and ecological conversion. While previous Catholic teaching affirms the moral obligation to care for God's creation, Laudato Si' makes clear that this obligation is neither "optional nor secondary," and in this way begins the bold cultural revolution Francis seeks within the tradition of Catholic social teaching itself. Yet care for creation is perhaps the single most unifying global challenge facing all peoples, all cultures, all faiths and those of no particular faith. This course will address the major themes of the encyclical and offer appropriate background in climate change and energy ethics. An emphasis will be the dialogue between Laudato Si' and the ethical and prophetic teachings of the traditions of course participants. In particular, we will explore the challenges facing faith-based environmental leaders and ministers, climate solutions and best practices for creation ministry, and personal ways to understand one's ecological vocation.

Saturday, October 1, 9:00 am – 5:00 pm
People today are both connected and mobile. The ramifications of this are vast. Too many believe that technology is just “taking the same message and delivering it in a new way.” But “the medium is the message” – or more accurately, message and medium are inextricably intertwined. The digital age is changing our conception of church, not just the practices of churches. In this session you will how to be effective at using media, design websites that connect.

Section 03: Sabbath: A Profound Spiritual and Subversive Practice
Instructor: Nahum Ward-Lev
Friday, October 28, 1:00 p.m. – 6:00 p.m.
Saturday, October 29, 9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Sabbath-keeping is a radical, subversive, life-changing spiritual practice. Two thousand years ago the Talmudic rabbis wrote, “Just as the Jewish people have kept the Sabbath so has the Sabbath kept the Jewish people.” Walter Brueggemann, in Sabbath as Resistance, wrote that Sabbath-keeping “summons us to intent and conduct that defies the most elemental requirements of a commodity-propelled society.” In this workshop we will explore the depth of Sabbath practice as we study passages from the Torah, Brueggemann and Abraham Joshua Heschel. We will investigate the role of Sabbath-keeping in the lives of social activists, as well as the practicalities of how to keep a meaningful Sabbath in the midst of a 24/7 world. This exploration of Sabbath-keeping will unfold within the expansive time of Sabbath itself, as we observe the Jewish rituals and taste the sweet restful depth of Sabbath time from sundown Friday to Saturday evening.

Friday November 4, 1:00 p.m. – 6:00 p.m.
Saturday November 5, 9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
This course teaches the small stuff, how to inspire stake holders, how to make changes without getting fired, how to deal with antagonists, how to hatch, match, dispatch (Baptisms, weddings, funerals) as well as how to keep a personal Sabbath when you work on Sundays, how to negotiate your contract and many more dashes between the nitty and the gritty in parish ministry.

Section 05: Right to Life vs. Right to Be Alive at the United Nations

Instructors: Patricia Ackerman
Friday December 2, 1:00 – 6:00 pm
Saturday December 3, 9:00 am – 5:00 pm

The United Nations is the premiere institution of international peace and security. Yet, it has become the site of a culture war between religious fundamentalisms and gender activism with regard to women’s human rights and the global LGBT population. This conflict takes place at UN meetings, such as the convening of the Human Rights Council, and through influencing outcome documents. This course will examine what amounts to an escalating culture war - particularly a fundamentalist crusade at the UN - and will problematize the lack of a response by the UN administration and membership.

Instructor: Paul Raushenbush
Fridays, January 13, 1:00 – 6:00 pm
Saturdays, January 14, 9:00 am – 5:00 pm

The Internet is the printing press on steroids. The implications of this new technology for religious communities, authority, theology and ontology will be seismic. The class will introduce the philosophical challenges and opportunities of the Internet. It will also include practical skill building in online organizing, social media platforms, blogging, and video. Open to students of all levels. Each student will leave with a personalized digital strategy.

Media-Savvy Leadership Session 2:
Section 01: 90 Second Sermon: Bringing the Pulpit to the People*
Instructors: Kellie Anderson-Picallo and Rich Hong
Friday, February 3, 1:00 p.m. - 6:00 p.m.
Saturday, February 4, 9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.

We can longer expect people to come to the pulpit; we have to bring the pulpit to the people. The 90 Second Sermon is an example of creating media pieces specifically for the online world. For something to be successful online, it needs to be visual, short, and shareable. Modern technology has made video production relatively simple and affordable. In this session you will learn to write and create your own short video pieces for online distribution. You will (if you wish) record your very own 90 Second Sermon to use in your setting.

Section 02: Deep Policy – Wrong and How to Right It
Instructor: Eric Schnurer
Friday, February 10, 1:00 p.m.– 6:00 p.m.
Saturday, February 11, 9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.

Both ministry and policy deal with the problems of an imperfect world; rarely do we take the opportunity to explore the roots of these imperfections and what might be done to prevent them. Instead of talking about what policies or preachings might best address the challenges we face in such areas as crime control, inequality, discrimination, repression, environmental destruction, or a host of others, this course asks, “What drives these challenges to begin with and what – if anything – can we do to prevent them?” To do this, we will draw upon and attempt to synthesize a wide range of disciplines, from theology and philosophy to chaos and game theory, ethics to evolutionary biology, psychology to economics – and, of course, public policy. We will tackle the issues of the Problem of Evil, Extortion and Exploitation; Lying, Deception and (Un)Truth; Selfishness and Cowardice; Unfairness and Injustice; Stupidity; Unreason and Insanity; and finally Complexity and Catastrophe from an interdisciplinary approach. We explore how wrong occurs, and how to right it.

Section 03: Managing Conflict and Creating Change Through Integrating Differences
Instructor: A. Meigs Ross
Friday, February 24, 1:00 p.m. - 6:00 p.m.
Saturday, February 25, 9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.

Conflict plays an inevitable part in all ministry contexts and is created when there are divergent points of view that have not yet been integrated. Each minister has his or her own relationship with conflict, some positive, some negative. This course assumes that conflicting points of view and emotions contain excellent information and, when worked with in a healthy way, can be essential to the development of a healthy ministry.

This course will focus on understanding conflict from a systems point of view. Students will explore how to find the strengths in working with divergent points of view. They will also learn how to work with conflict so that there can be growth and development in individuals and in groups. The course will teach students how to use functional subgrouping, a core method of Systems-Centered Theory (SCT®), to improve communication, work constructively with conflict and create sustainable change. There will be ample time given to experientially working with functional subgrouping and practicing leadership of this method.

After completing the course students will be able to use functional subgrouping as a method for integrating differences on a personal level, as a group leader and in ministry context.

Section 04: Moral Injury and Soul Repair in Veterans, Trauma-Survivors, and Caregivers
Instructor: Rita Nakashima Brock
Friday March 3, 1:00 p.m. - 6:00 p.m.
Saturday March 4, 9:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.

Moral injury is a new concept that focuses attention on the mental health consequences of witnessing, failing to prevent, or engaging in acts that violate deeply held moral beliefs. It occurs in relation to experiences of extremity, moral ambiguity, and trauma. It manifests in feelings of shame, guilt, remorse, self-condemnation, self-loathing, and despair. Most research has focused on veterans, especially those who have experienced war, but it is not limited to a military experience. We will explore precipitating experiences that can lead to moral injury, pathways to recovery, the role of communities, and theological, ritual, and spiritual implications of understanding it. We will also briefly examine neuroscience research as it illuminates differences between post-traumatic stress and moral injury. We will explore the power of the arts and ritual in soul repair, and civilian moral responsibility for the aftermath of war. The goal of the seminar will be to study these aspects of moral injury as they assist in helping professionals and communities in the work of soul repair after war, violence, and other conditions of extremity.
“Spring 2017 Only”
Media Savvy Leadership Session 3:
Section 05: Cultivating Your Voice and Brand*
Instructors: Kellie Anderson-Picallo and Rich Hong
Friday, March 24, 1:00 p.m. – 6:00 p.m.
Saturday, March 25, 9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.

What is the essential message that you and your organization are trying to convey to the world? Our current media environment demands that we convey a meaningful message about who we are in very few words. In this session you will learn to create a compelling narrative that will undergird all of your messaging. You will learn to improve your current materials, and use consistency and repetition to generate community awareness of your organization, using (mostly free) publicity.
Encouraged reading: Donald Miller “Blue Like Jazz”

Section 06: Intimate Peace, Intimate Justice: Responding to Domestic Violence/ Intimate Partner Violence in Communities of Faith
Instructor: Sally MacNichol
Friday, March 31, 1:00 p.m. – 6:00 p.m.
Saturday, April 1, 9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.

Communities of faith and their leaders have the potential to play a significant role in helping to prevent and eliminate intimate violence. This course is designed to help religious leaders, lay leaders and seminarians to:
• Gain a basic understanding of the complex dynamics of intimate violence and effects on individuals, families and communities;
• Examine our own experiences of violence and abuse, our theological and ethical assumptions and how they interact with and shape one another;
• Learn about intervention strategies: practices and resources needed to help keep victims/survivors safe, and abusers accountable;
• Explore approaches to the challenging pastoral, theological and spiritual issues raised by intimate violence for survivors, perpetrators, and witnesses as well as pastors and congregations;
• Develop strategies for how pastors and communities of faith can play a critical role in breaking the silence and preventing DV/IPV.

Section 07: Our Whole Lives: Sexuality Education Curriculum Training
Our Whole Lives (grades 7-12)
Instructors: Melanie Davis and Amy Johnson
Thursday, January 26, 6:00 p.m. – 9:00 p.m.
Friday, January 27, 9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Saturday, January 28, 9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.

Our Whole Lives: a three-day intensive sexual education training focused on certifying the participant to teach Our Whole Lives to youth. Our Whole Lives was created by the Unitarian Universalist Association who describes it as a course that “provides facts about anatomy and human development, but also helps participants clarify their values, build interpersonal skills, and understand the spiritual, emotional, and social aspects of sexuality.” The course promotes four core values: self-worth, sexual health, responsibility, justice and inclusivity. Participants will learn how to help the youth define their own sexual values within the framework of faith. This training is important in the life of the modern church. Sexuality raises personal, communal, and theological issues for every religious community. This youth-focused training will provide opportunities for the participants to discern what their personal sexual values are while preparing to take on the questions of their community.

This course is co-sponsored by the Riverside Church.

GENERAL COURSES

Courses of instruction are divided into the five curricular fields: Biblical, Historical, Theological, and Practical Theology, and the department of Integrative and Field-Based Education. Registration rubrics with the UT, IE, and SU prefixes denote courses not housed within a particular field.

The overall goals of this year-long seminar are to improve the quality of theses and to strengthen the research and writing skills of students. The specific objectives for the fall include: (1) helping students formulate manageable research questions and (2) identifying resources for addressing those questions. Deliverables for the fall include a satisfactory thesis proposal and a working resource list. The specific objectives for the spring include enabling students (1) to write a thesis and (2) to participate in larger scholarly discussions about their work. Deliverables for the spring include an outline, first draft, and final draft. Assignments for the course will align with the established deadlines for Union theses and will be based on milestones in the process of completing a master’s thesis. Students need to complete both semesters and register for UT 420 or UT 422 in the spring, in order to get credit for the completion of a master’s thesis.

When taking the recommended seminar, register as follows: UT 150 = 2 credits, UT 151 = 2 credits, UT 420 or UT 422 = 2 credits for a total of 6 credits.

The doctoral seminar, which will meet for two hours every two weeks, is for PhD students in their first and second year and for other PhD students who wish to take it. Committed to enhance the interdisciplinary nature of the Union PhD program, it will invite faculty (and other scholars) from different fields and attend to the ongoing dialogue between the different disciplines.

In the senior year, the candidate will elect one of the following options (a) six credits for a thesis or a senior project or (b) six credits from elective courses. The student will declare the option chosen for fulfilling this final six-credit requirement by submitting the Thesis Option Approval form to the Registrar by November 18th in the senior year. Students writing theses...
Register for the course in the semester in which the thesis will be completed (usually spring).

are strongly encouraged to take the thesis seminar (UT 150 & UT 151).

If the thesis option is chosen, the thesis subject must be reported to the Registrar by November 18th in the senior year. The student obtains the approval of the faculty member who agrees to serve as thesis advisor and first reader. (A thesis advisor is not necessarily the same professor who serves as the student’s program advisor, but the first reader must be a member of the faculty.) The thesis will be due on April 7th. At that time it will also be read by another member of the faculty, a second reader who has been assigned by the Academic Dean. When taking the recommended seminar, register as follows: UT 150 = 2 credits, UT 151 = 2 credits, UT 420 or UT 422 = 2 credits for a total of 6 credits. When not taking the seminar, register for 6 credits.

If the option of a senior project is chosen, the subject and a brief description of the scope of the project must be reported to the Registrar by November 18th, after it has been approved by the member of the faculty who has agreed to supervise the project. (This faculty approval corresponds to the role of “first reader” in the case of a thesis.) A senior project may invoke a range of possibilities, different from the research essay indicated by the thesis option e.g., art exhibits, performance, playwriting, musical composition.) The idea for, and the shape of, a student’s senior project must be approved and overseen by the faculty member who agrees to direct the student’s work. A senior project must include a written element. Like the thesis, a senior project must be completed by April 7th. At that time it will be evaluated by the faculty supervisor and a second professor who has been assigned by the Academic Dean.

If the option to complete elective courses is chosen, six points of full regular credit (i.e., not R credit) must be earned by the student in classroom courses of the seminary (i.e., CPE or a field education internship will not satisfy this requirement).

Note: The student who wishes to write the thesis or senior project in the fall semester should consult the Registrar regarding due dates for submission of the thesis option form, the preliminary outline and bibliography, and the thesis/senior project.

| UT 433 | S.T.M. Extended Paper (General Program) |
| The S.T.M. Extended Paper (30-40 pages) must be completed as an “extended” or enlarged adaptation of the requirements of a seminar or other advanced-level course or guided reading. It can be written in either the fall or spring semester. The topic of the Extended Paper is worked out with the professor. Candidates should be registered for &quot;UT 433 S.T.M. Extended Paper (General Program)&quot; as well as being registered for the course in which the paper is completed. |
| Note: The paper does not carry curricular points of credit apart from the points normally assigned to the course in which it is written. |
